

Tobias Donner, University Medical Center Hamburg – TBA

Tobias Donner received his MD, at Charitè, Humboldt-University of Berlin (2003) and his PhD at Berlin Neuroimaging Centre, Charite (2003). He has been a postdoctoral fellow in the Dept of Neurophysiology, Hamburg and Centre for Cognitive Neuroimaging, Donders Institute, Nijmegen (2003-6) and at the computational Neuroimaging Lab, New York University (2006-9). He then become an assistant Professor (U.D.), Brain and Cognition, University of Amsterdam (2009-15), associated P.I. at the Bernstein Center for Computational Neuroscience Berlin (since 2011), associated P.I., Brain and Cognition, University of Amsterdam (since 2015). Since 2015 he is professor of Integrative Neuroscience (W3) at the Dept of Neurophysiology and Pathophysiology, University Medical Center Hamburg. His lab focuses on the modulations of brain dynamics underlying decision making and learning. He is author of 38 publications, many of them highly cited (h-index of 20).